This policy is based on advice from the Department for Education on first aid in schools and health and safety in schools, and the following legislation:

- The Health and Safety (First Aid) Regulations 1981, which state that employers must provide adequate and appropriate equipment and facilities to enable first aid to be administered to employees, and qualified first aid personnel.

- The Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations 1999, which require employers to carry out risk assessments, make arrangements to implement necessary measures, and arrange for appropriate information and training.
- The Reporting of Injuries, Diseases and Dangerous Occurrences Regulations (RIDDOR) 2013, which state that some accidents must be reported to the Health and Safety Executive (HSE), and set out the timeframe for this and how long records of such accidents must be kept.
- Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1979, which set out rules on the retention of accident records.
- The Education (Independent School Standards) Regulations 2014, which require that suitable space is provided to cater for the medical and therapy needs of students.

Schools national testing programme.

It must be remembered that the best and fastest way for people with symptoms of Coronavirus to access a test is to visit a test site.

The College does have a limited amount of testing kits on site. There is no anti-body testing.

These test kits are to be used in exceptional circumstances where an individual, students or staff, who:

- Have developed symptoms while at College, and
- Where there are barriers to accessing a test elsewhere
- If an individual was sent home without a kit, they would not receive a test at all.

If the individual is under 18 the kit should be given to their parent or carer.

Individuals should not attend school/college to receive a test if they have developed symptoms outside of school/college premises

Schools and colleges will not be conducting coronavirus tests on site
