1. Definition

Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) is about the emotional, social and cultural development of students, and involves learning about relationships, sexual health, sexuality, healthy lifestyles, diversity and personal identity.

RSE involves a combination of sharing information, and exploring issues and values.

RSE is not about the promotion of sexual activity.

We have developed the curriculum in consultation with parents, students and staff, taking into account the age, needs and feelings of students. If students ask questions outside the scope of this policy, teachers will respond in an appropriate manner so they are fully informed and don't need to seek answers online.

2. Intent

We believe that developing students to become equipped members of society, both on a local and global level, requires explicit teaching of a thorough Personal, Social, Health and Economic (PSHE) curriculum. The PSHE curriculum is a planned, developmental programme of learning through which young people acquire knowledge, understanding and skills they need to manage their lives now and in the future. As part of a whole-school approach, PSHE education develops the qualities and attributes students need to thrive as individuals, family members and members of society. (PSHE Association 2017). An integral aspect of the PSHE content is relationships and sex education (RSE). The College will:

- Provide a framework in which sensitive discussions can take place.
- Prepare students for puberty, and give them an understanding of sexual development and the importance of health and hygiene.
- Help students develop feelings of self-respect, confidence and empathy.
- Create a positive culture around issues of sexuality and relationships.
- Teach students the correct vocabulary to describe themselves and their bodies.
- Provide our students with information that helps them uphold the College ethos of equal value for all.

In delivering PSHE and RSE the College will explore:

- Identity
- Relationships
- Health in physical, emotional and social terms
- Risk
- Diversity and equality
- Rights and responsibilities
- Change
- Power
- Careers

As a secondary academy school we must provide RSE to all students as per section 34 of the Children and Social Work Act 2017.

In teaching RSE, we are required by our funding agreements to have regard to guidance issued by the Secretary of State as outlined in section 403 of the Education Act 1996. At the College we teach RSE as set out in this policy.

The Assistant Principals who lead on the Key Stage 3 and Key Stage 4 PSHE curriculum provide a comprehensive overview of all the topics to be covered by each year group and plan the sequence of these topics across time to provide age-appropriate and developing exploration essential for their well-being.

3. Implementation

The PSHE curriculum is based on three core themes within which there is broad overlap and flexibility:

1. Health and wellbeing
2. Relationships
3. Living in the wider world

N.B: Tutorial sessions alongside RS curriculum in KS3 contribute to 5% requirement of RS education (SACRE Agreed Syllabus).

Detailed schemes of work with suitable resources are provided for form tutors to deliver during three 30 minutes tutorials each week. (See Appendix 1 for an overview of the topics covered). PSHE is also taught through a weekly assembly for each year group. Once a year, each year group will also have an additional tutorial for a term that fits into the Electives cycle. This allows more time to teach aspects of the PSHE curriculum that require a deeper consideration; are critical to the students' development at that particular stage, or those topics that are delivered in part by external speakers with specific expertise.

3.1 Assemblies

Each year group has a 15 minute assembly every week. These are led by senior leaders, teachers, outside speakers or agencies and also by the students themselves. They contribute greatly to the PSHE offer and will change depending on what is topical, a need identified or a topic explored by someone with a specific interest or knowledge. Students will also be involved in giving assemblies and these might be pertinent to the PSHE topic they are currently exploring in tutorial or on something that they have identified as important to share with their peer group. Below are some of the types of assemblies we give:

- Remembrance Sunday
- Gideon's talk
- Parliament outreach speaker
- Celebration assemblies
- The Holocaust

- Organ donation
- Knife crime: police
- Fair Trade fortnight
- Healthy relationships
- Making positive choices
- Making financial choices
- How can young people do their bit for the environment
- PREVENT – radical views

3.2 Values and ethos

We are aware that the pressures of the modern world can be overwhelming for young people. Not only do we aim to counter those challenges through all the aspects of curriculum already mentioned, but central to our ethos is the principle that participation in the full life of the College develops personal responsibility. Contributing as part of a bigger team will not only build self-esteem but will create greater personal stability, so that when faced with challenges, students will have greater resilience. Some ways in which students will learn to be members of the College could be through being:

- a member of one of the three College Houses;
- a mentor for other students;
- part of a sports team or College performance;
- asked their views in College surveys;
- part of a student panel in staff interviews;
- a member of the Student Council;
- part of a charity event;
- a prefect, head student or house captain.
- a volunteer through the Duke of Edinburgh's Award
- involved in the National Citizenship Service summer scheme

These contributions and many others will develop a commitment to the wider life of the College which develops responsibility and pride, and will prepare them for their next steps.

3.3 RSE

RSE is taught within the Personal, Social, Health and Economic (PSHE) education curriculum. Biological aspects of RSE are taught within the science curriculum, and other aspects are included in religious education (RE).

3.4 SEN

Students in the DSP (who have EHCPs) will access RSE in tutorials as they join mainstream groups but also bespoke RSE education is provided within science where they learn about both the biological aspects and also the emotional and social aspects. This is taught together by the SEN science teacher. Parents of these students sign a consent form to allow this. If further consolidation of these issues is needed this is given extra time through one-to-one sessions led by either the keyworker or an SEN teacher. Through key workers and RSE in science the students are also made aware of how they access the school nurse.

RSE focuses on giving young people the information they need to help them develop healthy, nurturing relationships of all kinds including:

- Families.
- Respectful relationships, including friendships.
- Online and media.
- Being safe.
- Intimate and sexual relationships, including sexual health.

These areas of learning are taught within the context of family life taking care to ensure that there is no stigmatisation of children based on their home circumstances (families can include single parent families, LGBT parents, families headed by grandparents, adoptive parents, foster parents/carers amongst other structures) along with reflecting sensitively that some children may have a different structure of support around them (for example: looked after children or young carers).

3.5 Staff

Staff are responsible for:

- Delivering RSE in a sensitive way.
- Modelling positive attitudes to RSE.
- Monitoring progress.
- Responding to the needs of individual students.
- Responding appropriately to students whose parents wish them to be withdrawn from the non-statutory/non-science components of RSE.

Staff do not have the right to opt out of teaching RSE. Staff who have concerns about teaching RSE are encouraged to discuss this with the senior leader responsible for its delivery. CPD will be available to all teachers who deliver aspects of the RSE curriculum so that they feel confident and prepared for the appropriate teaching of particularly sensitive issues.

All form tutors will teach RSE at Catmose College. In addition, senior leaders might also contribute to the teaching through assemblies.

3.6 Students

Students are expected to engage fully in RSE and, when discussing issues related to RSE, treat others with respect and sensitivity.

4. Impact

Successful implementation of our PSH and RSE curriculum will result in:

- Students who value our ethos and contribute positively to our community.
- Students who know where to get help when they have difficulties or concerns.
- Students feeling safe at College.

We will measure this impact with a quality assurance process that interrogates the coherence of delivery across each year group. The Assistant Principals responsible for leading the PSHE and RSE curriculum will review the topics annually to ensure resources and issues are up-to-date. They will also offer guidance to tutors delivering the programme so that any gaps in knowledge are addressed. CPD will also be offered to ensure that all those who deliver the sessions feel comfortable and confident especially with the most sensitive issues.

In addition, we will use a range of measures to determine the success of our curriculum which are monitored and shared with governors, these include:

- Student attendance. If our curriculum is engaging, broad and balanced students will want to attend College.
- Student behaviour. If the curriculum is right for our students, lessons and other activities will be engaging and rates of reporting of poor behaviour and exclusions will be low.
- The quality of tutorial lessons observed. If our curriculum is well designed and planned, lessons will be of a high quality and this will be shown through the grades the senior leadership team award for teaching.
- Student engagement in the enhanced curriculum. We will monitor student take up of trips and visits, the performing arts, competitions and clubs, ensuring that all students are involved in a broad mix of activity.
- A strong positive response from our stakeholder surveys. We annually survey staff, students and parents, asking a range of questions about our curriculum.

5. Policy Development

This policy has been developed in consultation with staff, students and parents. The consultation and policy development process involved the following steps:

1. Review – Assistant Principals with responsibility for the tutorial programme pulled together all relevant information including relevant national and local guidance.
2. Staff consultation – all College staff were given the opportunity to look at the policy and make recommendations.
3. A draft copy of the policy and an overview of the topics that are covered was made available to parents so that feedback could be considered and we welcome any further feedback from parents.
4. Through the student council and using a focus group comprising of all year groups and a mix of genders we investigated what exactly students want from their RSE education.
5. Ratification – once amendments were made, the policy was shared with governors and ratified.

6. Roles and Responsibilities

6.1 The Local Governing Body

The governing board will approve the RSE policy, and hold the Principal to account for its implementation.

6.2 The Principal

The Principal is responsible for ensuring that RSE is taught consistently across the school, and for managing requests to withdraw students from non-statutory/non-science components of RSE (see section 8).

6.3 Assistant Principals

There are two Assistant Principals whose whole College responsibility is to oversee the PSHE and RSE curriculum. They will review the intent and resources and lead the tutorial teams in their effective implementation. They will contribute to the quality assurance of tutorial lessons and in the CPD given to staff who deliver it.

6.4 Training

Staff are provided with the resources needed to deliver of RSE by the allocated tutor lead for each year group. There are 2 Assistant Principals who oversee the planning and implementation of RSE through the PSHE Curriculum. They will provide support and any CPD that is needed in order that all tutors are confident and capable to teach it.

6.5 Monitoring arrangements

The delivery of RSE is monitored by two Assistant Principals and a Link Vice Principal through:

- An annual review of the RSE curriculum to ensure it meets statutory guidance and remains relevant to students as both society and other influences develop.
- CPD for those who deliver the RSE content through the tutorial programme.
- Termly learning walks to ensure the quality of delivery is routinely scrutinised.
- Focus groups with students to check that they feel that the delivery of RSE is appropriate.

Students' development in RSE is monitored by form tutors and any class teachers who will discuss associated topics through the delivery of their specific subject. In addition, members of the Client Services team who deal with associated issues linked to the welfare and well-being of any students will also act as part of our internal assessment systems.

This policy will be reviewed by the link Vice Principal annually. At every review, the policy will be approved by the Local Governing Body.

7. Parents' right to withdraw

Parents have the right to withdraw their children from the non-statutory/non-science components of sex education within RSE up to and until 3 terms before their child turns 16. After this point, if the child wishes to receive sex education rather than being withdrawn, the school will arrange this.

Requests for withdrawal should be put in writing using the form found in Appendix 2 of this policy and addressed to the Principal.

A copy of withdrawal requests will be placed in the student's file. The Principal or designated senior leader will discuss the request with parents and take appropriate action.

Alternative work will be given to students who are withdrawn from sex education.
